1. Aims

The aims of Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) at our school are to:

- Provide a framework for sensitive discussions.
- Prepare students for puberty, equipping them with knowledge of sexual development, health, and hygiene.
- Foster self-respect, confidence, and empathy.
- Cultivate a positive culture around relationships and sexuality.
- Teach students accurate terminology for their bodies.
- Promote values of inclusivity, respect, and consent.
- Ensure students understand the implications of their actions in both real-world and online contexts.
- Support students in developing critical thinking skills to navigate complex relationships and media influences.
- Educate students on the legal aspects surrounding relationships, consent, and sexual health.

2. Statutory Requirements

This policy complies with:

- Section 34 of the Children and Social Work Act 2017, which mandates relationships education for all students.
- Section 403 of the Education Act 1996, which provides guidance on sex education.

- The PSHE Association Guidelines for secondary education.

At our school, we deliver RSE in accordance with these legal frameworks and our ethos.

3. Definition

RSE is the emotional, social, and cultural development of students, covering:

- Relationships
- Sexual health

- Diversity and identity
- Healthy lifestyles
- Personal safety (including online safety)
- The impact of media and technology on relationships and identity

RSE includes fact-based discussions and critical thinking about values and choices. It does not promote sexual activity.

4. Curriculum

Our RSE curriculum is outlined in Appendix 1 and is regularly reviewed in consultation with students, parents, and staff.

RSE is primarily delivered through Curriculum for Life lessons, with elements integrated into Science and Religious Education (RE). If students ask questions beyond the curriculum, teachers provide factually correct and age-appropriate responses.

RSE for secondary students also includes:

- Developing emotional intelligence and resilience in relationships.
- Understanding gender identity and sexual orientation.
- Discussing issues such as coercive control and unhealthy relationships.
- Addressing the impacts of pornography and unrealistic relationship expectations.

5. Delivery of RSE

RSE is delivered within Curriculum for Life, supported by:

- Biological aspects covered in Science.
- Ethical and moral discussions in RE.
- Additional workshops led by trained health professionals where appropriate.

Topics include:

- Family structures
- Friendships and respectful relationships
- Online safety and digital responsibility
- Sexual health and contraception
- Consent and boundaries

- Mental and emotional wellbeing
- Recognising and reporting abuse
- Gender identity and LGBTQ+ inclusion
- Understanding sexual harassment and legal protections

Lessons include discussions, case studies, role-play, video resources, and group activities to ensure inclusive, engaging learning.
